SUPERVISION OF A YOUNG CHILD IF THE SCHOOLS CLOSE:

A large percentage of children come from unoccupied homes during the school hours while both parents are working. Parents should designate, in advance, a safe home with adult supervision where a young child should go if the schools must close or be dismissed early. Parents must make sure the child has the necessary information as to where the child is to go in the event school must be closed.

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE:

Children should be sent to school each day that school is open for instruction. Children should also be made aware that there are times when a change in a normal routine is necessary because of unforeseen circumstances such as snow storms or water main breaks.

The district tries to keep school open unless dangerous conditions exist. The children are safer in school during poor visibility weather than on the streets or in unsupervised homes. By legislation, the school year must consist of 180 days for students, and those 180 days must be completed by June 30th.
